

My name is André Landzaat and I am an actor and teacher.

Over the last 20 years I have taught Method Acting at the Lee Strasberg Institute in Los Angeles. I am also a lifetime member of The Actors Studio in New York and Los Angeles. During the course of my career I have shared work with many renowned actors, such as Shelley Winters, Robert de Niro, Al Pacino and Elizabeth Taylor.

Currently I am in the Netherlands where I found my own Method Acting Studio; Method Acting Studio Amsterdam (MASA).

Apart from that, I also conduct classes at the Mulholland Academy, as well as masterclasses throughout Europe.

Donnavon Madaran, who is a student of mine, shows great interest and enthusiasm for the work. He possesses a good emotional acting instrument, is dedicated and has enormous passion for his profession. With respect to method acting (also known as 'The Method') he has improved in a short period of time. I believe he has great potential and would recommend him to any possible future acting work.

With the best regards,
André Landzaat
